ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The Association for Canadian Studies in the United States, established in 1971, is the foremost multidisciplinary American based academic association committed to the promotion and advancement of teaching, research, scholarship, and professional outreach on Canada. Our biennial conference delivers a convivial and first quality academic experience in showcasing original, significant research on a wide variety of topics that directly engage Canada.

Our 2019 biennial conference venue is the Hotel Omni Mont-Royal on bustling Sherbrooke Street West; the hotel dominates Montreal’s Golden Square Mile historical district, and is situated across from McGill University. Montreal, which stands as one of North America’s premier metropolitan centers, is a vibrant and engaging metropolis offering a broad range of unrivaled cultural and social experiences.

As the enclosed program illustrates, our 2019 conference promises to be an especially rich experience. With over 250 participants, our proceedings will feature an exceptional range of scholarly panels, roundtables, plenary sessions, receptions, keynote speakers, and special artistic performances. We are very pleased that the ACSUS 2019 conference is supported by some 25 sponsors and exhibitors from across the United States and Canada.

We encourage you to visit our exhibit area as your schedule permits.

On behalf of the ACSUS Executive Committee, we extend our very best to you!

Il est un plaisir de vous accueillir aux 25èmes conférences de l’Association des Études canadiennes aux États-Unis! I am extremely pleased to welcome you to the 25th biennial conference of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States! As with just about all academic organizations, ACSUS has experienced a challenging environment in recent years. We have collectively met those challenges and are continuing to advance our mission of promoting critical knowledge and appreciation of Canada, throughout the United States and beyond. Our positive relationships with North American neighbors and our friends in related academic associations have reinforced our understanding of the ongoing importance of Canada to all of us.

Je suis certain que cette conférence démontrera la force durable de notre engagement de notre communauté scolaire. Nous sommes particulièrement heureux d’être ici à Montréal. L’étude du Québec a été toujours un élément crucial de notre compréhension globale du Canada et c’est ville et une location fantastique pour cet événement. Nous somme surtout reconnaissants du soutien de personnes et organisations local et provincial que nous avons reçu pour préparer cette événement. L’hôtel Omni Mont Royal est un lieu exceptionnel et nous remercions de toute son aide. Nos efforts offrent l’occasion l’expérience d’interprétations diverses du Canada, pour nous et pour d’autres groupes privés et publics.

Most importantly, I am personally grateful for the hard work and dedication of my fellow ACSUS executive officers, the ACSUS Executive Council, and all of the people who have made this conference possible, especially our ACSUS Vice-President, Dr. Christopher Kirkey, who has served, magnificently, as Program Chair. This conference is our biennial opportunity to come together as a grand community and celebrate our common commitment to the study of Canada while, simultaneously, learning from each other. It has been a singular honor for me to serve as ACSUS President during the past two years and I look forward to continuing my active involvement with the association for many years to come, especially because of the support all of you provide. Bienvenue, encore, à Montréal and to this conference, ce qui est un symbole de notre succès!

Merci/Thanks!

Dear Participant in the 25th Biennial Conference of ACSUS,

As President of the International Council for Canadian Studies/Conseil international d'études canadiennes (ICCS/CIEC), and on behalf of Canadianists all over the world, it is my pleasure to be a part of the welcome you are receiving as participants in the 25th Biennial conference of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States (ACSUS).

The ICCS/CIEC is an umbrella organization that supports and works to advance the programs of member associations around the world. Among other things, and with the assistance of the “Advancing Canada Coalition” led by Canadian public opinion researcher Nik Nanos (www.advancecanada.org), we have been actively pursuing funding to replace the “Understanding Canada Program” that the Government of Canada terminated in 2012.

ACSUS is a founding member of the Council, and it remains one of the largest and most active Canadian Studies academic associations in the world. We are proud of our partnership with ACSUS and look forward to collaborating with your Association in the years to come.

ACUS Vice-President Christopher Kirkey and his program and conference organizing committee have worked tirelessly to put together a conference that promises to be both stimulating and enjoyable.

We at ICCS congratulate ACSUS on this milestone meeting, and wish you all a great conference.

Yours sincerely,

Munroe Eagles
President
Message from the Minister

The Government of Québec is proud to be associated once again with the 25th biennial conference of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States (ACSUS), which this year is held in Montréal under the theme Canada: Forces of Inclusion and Exclusion.

Your interest in Québec exemplifies the great relationship we maintain with the United States. It was in New York City that Québec established one of its first international offices nearly eighty years ago. Since then, the ties we have forged extend across many areas of activity: economic, cultural, political, diplomatic and institutional.

Québec is a distinct nation due to its language, culture, innovations and progressive policies. Our priorities are education, healthcare, and the economy. Through the work of researchers, graduate students, professors and practitioners, we benefit from this dual perspective on our policies and society. Your work contributes to the development of tools that are essential in promoting Québec's expertise, in both Canada and the United States.

Now more than ever, Québec is playing an influential role internationally. This influence is reflected in the strong interest of ACSUS members regarding our methods and actions.

I applaud the interest you have demonstrated in Québec studies and your commitment to ensure that they continue to thrive. I am convinced that this edition of the conference will be a resounding success!

Nadine Girault
Minister of International Relations and La Francophonie
November 13, 2019

On behalf of the U.S. Mission to Canada and our team here at Consulate General Montreal, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 25th biennial conference of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States.

The Association for Canadian Studies in the United States plays an important role in raising awareness and promoting the U.S.-Canada relationship. Today, it is more important than ever that we train our students to understand both the significance and the complexities of our relationship, ensuring that our future leaders are prepared to navigate it. By continuing to engage and learn from one another, we’re building a prosperous future for the people of both countries. The United States and Canada share borders, values, and a common future. Our countries have been friends, partners, and allies for more than 150 years. I am confident this relationship will endure for the next 150 and beyond.

Diplomacy in the 21st century is no longer the exclusive domain of the professional diplomat. Diplomacy between vibrant, connected, modern democracies is the work of the citizenry. If the uniquely strong partnership between the United States and Canada is to continue growing and expanding, that work will be – more than ever – the work of each of us. Your role in building depth of understanding and raising awareness of this strategic relationship is the foundation of citizen diplomacy, and it’s a pleasure to welcome you here to further this important work here in Montreal.

I wish you a successful conference, and continued success deepening the mutual understanding that underpins the world’s greatest modern international partnership.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Thomas
Consul General
It is my pleasure, on behalf of Fulbright Canada, as a principal sponsor, to welcome you to Montreal and the 25th biennial conference of the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States.

Both personally and professionally, I have been a supporter of ACSUS for my entire career and applaud the organization and its members for their commitment to raise awareness and understanding in what is an undeniably strong, productive, and important relationship.

As you may know, Fulbright Canada is a binational, treaty-based, non-governmental, not-for-profit organization with a mandate to identify the best and brightest minds in both countries and engage them in residential academic exchange.

ACSUS and Fulbright Canada both hold a deep appreciation for the transformative power of the academic exchange and dialogue in the spheres of comparative public policy, and the essential bilateral relationship between Canada and the United States. Fulbright Canada’s strong and continued presence at ACSUS, is a testament to the lasting value of investing in our collective future and a reminder that exchanges led to greater mutual understanding. Alumni of the Fulbright Canada program are active and engaged members of the ACSUS community; indeed, Fulbright Canada alumni can be found on a majority of panels, publications, and executive committees in ACSUS.

Congratulations on your hard work and your significant accomplishments.

We are pleased to be able to do our small part in the pursuit of a greater understanding and increased peace and prosperity.

Dr. Michael Hawes
Chief Executive Officer
As Director of the Center for the Study of Canada and Institute on Quebec Studies at the State University of New York College at Plattsburgh, I am delighted to extend a warm and heartfelt welcome to all ACSUS conference participants.

The act of being welcomed and feeling that one is a meaningful part of the community we call Canadian Studies is an art, not a science. It's about the act of stopping to converse with first-time attendees, undergraduate and graduate students, and new faculty. It's about taking time to make introductions and connecting colleagues to each other over a refreshment break, lunch or at a reception. It's about explaining why the respective research and scholarship we each engage in is original and significant. It's fundamentally about forging and renewing human relationships, new and old, that make the biennial conference of ACSUS a truly special academic experience.

More than twenty-five years ago while I was participating in my first Middle Atlantic and New England Council for Canadian Studies conference, I was seated on a bench in the Hyatt Hotel lobby in Rochester, NY. A group of senior, well respected scholars of Canadian Studies walked by, leaving the hotel on their way for dinner. What happened next was a singular moment that proved to be transformational in my professional life. Out of the group of fifteen or so academics, one person paused, turned, and walked over to me, reached out his hand in friendship, and enthusiastically exclaimed “Hi, I’m George Sulzner, welcome to MANECCS.” That simple exchange led to a fifteen minute conversation about who I was, where I was based, what I taught, and the focus of my research interests. No other moment has ever been as professionally meaningful in my life. That selfless act of seeing a youngish new professor who was clearly unfamiliar with and not connected to the MANECCS community, and then investing the time to introduce and welcome him to this regional Canadian Studies association, was an outstanding moment of professional grace and hospitality!

In George’s spirit, I am honored to welcome each and every conference participant to the 2019 ACSUS biennial.

Sincerely,

Dr. Christopher Kirkey

Kim Richard Nossal is professor of political studies and director of the Centre for International and Defence Policy at Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario. Before coming to Queen’s, he taught at McMaster University from 1976 to 2001. He served as the president of the Canadian Political Science Association in 2005–2006 and was the academic chair of the Security and Defence Forum from 2006 until 2012.

Nossal is the author of a number of works on Canadian foreign and defence policy, including, with Jean-Christophe Boucher, The Politics of War: Canada’s Afghanistan Mission, 2001–14 (2017); Charlie Foxtrot: Fixing Defence Procurement in Canada (2016); and, with Stéphane Roussel and Stéphane Paquin, the fourth edition of The Politics of Canadian Foreign Policy (2015).
David M. Shribman, executive editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette from 2003 to 2019, writes a nationally syndicated column in the United States; prepares a separate column on American affairs for the Toronto Globe and Mail, the national newspaper of Canada; is scholar in residence at Carnegie Mellon University; and in the 2019-2020 academic year is teaching at the Max Bell School of Public Policy at Montreal’s McGill University. He went to Pittsburgh from The Boston Globe where he was assistant managing editor, columnist and Washington bureau chief.

He graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College with a degree in history and was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor society. He did graduate work in European and African history at Cambridge University, England, as a Reynolds Scholar.

He served as national political correspondent for The Wall Street Journal, covered Congress and national politics for The New York Times and was a member of the national staff of The Washington Star. A native of Salem, Massachusetts, he began his career at The Buffalo Evening News, where he worked on the city staff before being assigned to the paper’s Washington bureau.

Mr. Shribman was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1995 for his writing on Washington and the American political scene. He led the coverage of the Tree of Life synagogue massacre that won the Pulitzer Prize a quarter-century later.

Mr. Shribman was a regular panelist on the PBS show “Washington Week,” has appeared on both “Face the Nation” and “Meet the Press,” and is a frequent analyst for the BBC and CBC. His “I Remember My Teacher,” a tribute to the nation’s great educators, was published in 2002. He has lectured at universities and colleges around the country and taught courses at Notre Dame, Brandeis, Virginia Commonwealth University and Gettysburg College. He was a Poynter Fellow at Yale and delivered the Lyndon Baines Johnson Distinguished Lecture at Southwest Texas State University and the Charles Hall Dillon Lecture at the University of South Dakota.

Mr. Shribman is an emeritus member of the Board of Trustees of Dartmouth College and of the Board of Visitors of Dartmouth’s Rockefeller Center for the Social Sciences. He is a member of the selection committee for the Profiles in Courage Award at the John F. Kennedy Library and of the George H.W. He also sits on the national board of the Calvin Coolidge Foundation and holds four honorary degrees.

He has been married to Cindy Skrzycki, a University of Pittsburgh professor, for more than 40 years, and they have two grown daughters, Elizabeth and Natalie.
Dr. Michael Hawes is a professor of political science, a tireless advocate of international education, and a proud alumnus of the Fulbright program. He is Chief Executive Officer of the Foundation for Educational Exchange between Canada and the USA and Executive Director of Fulbright Canada. Under his direction, Fulbright Canada has witnessed dramatic growth in the breadth of its programming and in the number of students and scholars that the program supports. Since 1985, he has been a professor of international relations (currently on leave) in the Department of Political Studies at Queen’s University in Kingston. He currently chairs the International Advisory Board of the Institute for Studies in International Development at McGill University, is a member of the executive committee of the board at Canada World Youth, and a member of the Canadian Foreign Policy Journal Editorial Advisory Board.

Dr. Hawes has held visiting professorships in North America, Europe, and Asia. Among others, he was Visiting Professor at the Center for Public Diplomacy in the Annenberg School of Communications and Journalism at the University of Southern California; J. William Fulbright Distinguished Professor of International and Area Studies at the University of California at Berkeley; Visiting Scholar at the Instituto Tecnologico Autonomo de Mexico in Mexico City; Visiting Professor in the Political Science Department at the University of British Columbia; Visiting Research Fellow at the Swedish Institute for International Affairs in Stockholm; Visiting Professor of International Political Economy at Tsukuba University in Japan; and, on several occasions, Visiting Professor of International Political Economy at the International University of Japan in Niigata, Japan. His most recent books are Canadian Foreign Policy in a Unipolar World, with Christopher Kirkey (Oxford University Press, 2017) and, Canada’s Public Diplomacy, with Nicholas Cull, (Palgrave Macmillan, November 2018).

Professor Hawes also holds the distinction of Doctor of Humane Letters (Honoris Causa) from the State University of New York (May 2016) and Doctor of Letters (Honoris Causa) from Vancouver Island University (June 2018).
KEYNOTE SPEAKER

ÉRIC MARQUIS
Assistant Deputy Minister, Ministry of International Relations and La Francophonie, Government of Québec

Since October 2019, Éric Marquis is Assistant Deputy Minister for Bilateral Relations for the Québec Department of International Relations. In that capacity he is responsible for 28 of Québec’s international offices and for coordinating relations between Québec and several of its strategic partners in the Americas, Europe and Asia.

From September 2017 to October 2019, Mr. Marquis was Assistant Deputy Minister for the United States, the Americas and Asia-Pacific, where he oversaw the implementation of Québec’s new approach to commercial diplomacy. Prior to that, he was the Québec Government Representative in the Midwest from 2011 to 2017, where he was responsible for developing Québec’s trade, investment and political relations with 12 Midwestern states. He also served as Québec’s representative in Washington, DC, from 2004 to 2007 and in senior management positions at the Québec Departments of International Relations and Education.

A graduate from the University of Victoria in British Columbia and Concordia University in Montréal, he taught American history and American foreign policy in various Québec universities, including the Québec Institute of Advanced International Studies (IQHEI) at Université Laval.
The Donner Medal in Canadian Studies is presented biennially by the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States for distinguished achievement, scholarship and program innovation in the area of Canadian Studies in the United States. The recipient is recognized for exemplary activities and contributions in at least one of the following categories: teaching, scholarship, administration, and public affairs.

The Association for Canadian Studies in the United States [ACSUS] is pleased and honored that Professor Mildred Schwartz is the 2019 recipient of the Donner Medal in Canadian Studies. For nearly six decades Professor Schwartz has been making significant contributions to Canadian studies in the United States and beyond through her research, teaching, and service. After starting her career for two years as an Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Alberta, she has spent the rest of her long and successful career advancing Canadian Studies in the United States, much of it (1966-1998) at the University of Illinois at Chicago and most recently as a Visiting Scholar in Sociology at New York University (1999-present).

Professor Schwartz, a world-renowned social scientist and pioneer in the advancement of ACSUS, has authored, co-authored or edited 13 books and 65 peer-reviewed and scholarly articles, the overwhelming majority of which have focused either directly or in comparative studies on Canadian political behavior, regionalism and identity.

Professor Schwartz served on the ACSUS Executive Council from 1970-1975, and on the ACSUS nominating committee, the planning committee, bicentennial project, ACSUS-Duke University and the Executive Council of the Canadian Politics Section of the American Political Science Association.

The academic community has taken note over the years of Professor Schwartz’s achievements. In 1998, she was the first recipient of the Thomas O. Enders Fellowship. In 2003, ACSUS awarded her the Citation for Distinguished Scholarship in Canadian Studies. In 2010, the American Political Science Association created the Mildred A. Schwartz Lifetime Achievement Award that recognizes scholars who have contributed significantly to the study of Canadian politics. She also was awarded the Seymour Martin Lipset Best Book Award from the American Political Science Association for her book, Party Movements in the United States and Canada: Strategies of Persistence. Professor Schwartz remains a highly active contributor to the promotion and scholarship of Canadian Studies and this award is a testament to her ongoing career and the impact it has had on this community.
2019 ACSUS DISTINGUISHED DISSERTATION AWARD

The dissertation represents original work that makes a significant contribution to the awardee’s academic discipline and to the study of Canada. The dissertation must contain at least 50% content on Canada, and the award committee evaluates nominees on substantive and methodological quality, originality of thought, and clarity.

The Association for Canadian Studies in the United States [ACSUS] is pleased and honored that Professor Emma Elliott-Groves is the 2019 recipient of the ACSUS Distinguished Dissertation Award.

Supervisor: Dr. Megan Bang, Northwestern University

Description: This dissertation explores the meanings and explanations of suicidal behavior from the perspective of Cowichan Tribes community members. Cowichan Tribes is located on the southern tip of Vancouver Island, British Columbia. With the tribal context at the center of this investigation, this dissertation draws on Indigenous methodological approaches and theorizes suicidal behavior by engaging both settler colonial theory and the interpersonal theory of suicide. In the particular context of the Cowichan peoples, this project speaks back to the pressures of colonialism and the implications of settler colonialism on Indigenous futurity.

2019 JEANNE KISSNER UNDERGRADUATE ESSAY IN THE HUMANITIES AWARD

The Jeanne Kissner Undergraduate Essay in Humanities Award honors the late Dr. Jeanne Kissner, former Co-Director of the Center for the Study of Canada at SUNY Plattsburgh. Professor Kissner was unflagging in her support of Canadian Studies undergraduate education.

This award is presented to Victor J. Locke, St. Lawrence University

“Land of Hope and Dreams: American Draft Dodgers in Canada During the Vietnam War”

Instructor: Dr. Neil Forkey, Department of History, St. Lawrence University
AWARDS

RUFUS Z. SMITH AWARD
The Award is presented to the individual(s) who is deemed to have written the best article in the American Review of Canadian Studies during the two years prior to the biennial. The prize is named after Rufus Z. Smith, a long-time secretary-treasurer of the Association.

The 2019 recipient of the Rufus Z. Smith Prize for best article is:

GEORGE SULZNER AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICE
The George Sulzner Award for Outstanding Service will be presented, effective with the 2021 50th anniversary biennial conference, to a member of the association who has provided distinguished service to ACSUS. The award honors the career of Dr. George T. Sulzner, who exemplified the spirit of selfless service to ACSUS, Canadian Studies, and academia in his role as a mentor, administrator, officer, and patron for all of these causes and the people involved with them. This award recognizes the efforts of people who reflect that same spirit and whose contributions to ACSUS may not have been previously recognized but who have made a lasting contribution to the success of its mission.

Future recipients will be members of ACSUS who have a record of substantial activity in support of the administrative, programmatic, advisory, and/or decision-making efforts of the association and its mission to advance the academic study of Canada. Eligible recipients also may be noted for conspicuous service to the cause of Canadian Studies in the United States that have not directly involved the activities of the association. The award will be presented on a biannual basis through a process including nominations (by a member of the association) to the ACSUS Awards Committee. Selected recipients will be chosen as a result of a recommendation of the ACSUS Awards Committee to the ACSUS President.

The late Jim Prentice and Jean-Sebastien Rioux have combined to produce a very important book, Triple Crown: Winning Canada’s Energy Future (Toronto: HarperCollins, 2017). Triple Crown is a volume that makes great contributions in the academic sense while maintaining genuine importance to policy. This book’s comprehensive treatment of energy policy is relevant to any number of disciplines and ongoing research agendas. Chapters in the volume focus on energy in the context of resources per se, along with Canadian-American relations. Triple Crown also provides a thoughtful treatment of environmental issues and the role of the First Nations in the domain of energy. Location-specific issues, such as the Asia-Pacific and Atlantic basins, are assessed in compelling ways.

This book roundtable at ACSUS focuses on the newly published volume edited by Susan Hodgett and Patrick James, Necessary Travel: New Area Studies and Canada in Comparative Perspective. This work examines the future of area studies in the 21st century and directly considers Canadian Studies. The collection is significant as it is leading a growing global conversation about how to study the concept of “area” in the 21st century and how that should differ from what went before. This roundtable also examines new currents in ways to study Canada.

PRESERVING THE REGION’S HERITAGE

As one of the top accredited archives in Quebec, the Easten Townships Resource Centre preserves the documentary heritage of the Eastern Townships and serves as an archival expertise resource for local heritage organizations.

Accredited by Bibliothèque et Archives nationales du Québec, the ETRC Archives acquires, processes, preserves and gives access to archival fonds and collections that illustrate the development of the Eastern Townships’ English-speaking community. Thousands of documents such as diaries, letters, minute books, photographs, postcards, maps, plans and audio-visual material are made available to researchers. Assistance is also provided to genealogists tracing their family roots.

PROMOTION OF THE REGION’S HISTORY

The ETRC promotes the Townships’ rich and unique history through public lectures, colloquia, and exhibitions. The Centre offers educational materials for teachers and its own publication, the Journal of Eastern Townships Studies (JETS). As a long-standing and proud member of the Bishop’s community, the ETRC creates bridges between Bishop’s and the surrounding communities.

CANADIAN STUDIES PROGRAM
AT BRIDGEWATER STATE UNIVERSITY

Established in 1973, the Canadian Studies Program promotes the study of Canada and Canadian-American relations on and off its southeastern New England campus. The program includes faculty members from more than 10 scholarly disciplines and offers a vibrant multidisciplinary Minor to engaged undergraduate students. Once per year, BSUCS presents a Distinguished Canadian Annual Address and each semester hosts a variety of Canada-related guests from government, academics, and the business community. The program is home to the Killam Visiting Professor in Canadian Studies, an endowed chair that enables prominent Canadian academics to pursue research, write, and teach students at BSU for one semester.

In March 2020, BSUCS will host its second international Undergraduate Research Conference, a one-day symposium that invites students from across North America to present their work in a collegial, constructive environment. The theme of this year’s conference is: Canada, the U.S., Quebec, and the Problem of the Border. For more information, see the BSUCS insert in your conference packet.

THE McGILL INSTITUTE FOR THE STUDY OF CANADA

Since 1994, The McGill Institute for the Study of Canada has aimed to better the understanding of Canada through the study of its history, as well as its political, social and economic values. MISC supports an active research environment, and organizes a variety of large-scale, public events on matters of interest to Canadians.

EAKIN VISITING FELLOWSHIP

MISC also offers a range of academic opportunities, one of which being the Eakin Visiting Fellowship.

The Fellowship is awarded for periods of one or two academic semesters to an active scholar on studies related to Canada. The position is open in terms of rank and discipline, to dynamic scholars who can enrich the study of Canada with fresh perspectives. The Fellowship offers a stipend of $15,000 CAD per semester. MISC is now taking applications for the 2020/2021 academic year.

For more information, go to:
www.mcgill.ca/misc/academics/eakin

The deadline for application is January 3, 2020.
Johns Hopkins University’s Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) hosts the leading graduate program in international economics and public policy in Washington, DC and the only one with a focus on Canada, US-Canadian Relations, and North American political economy.

Our faculty include past presidents of ACSUS Charles F. Doran and Tamara Woroby. Professor Christopher Sands directs the Johns Hopkins Center for Canadian Studies, an on-campus think tank founded at SAIS in 1960 by Canadian Robert Mundell, who went on to win the Nobel Prize in Economics in 1999.

For 75 years, students have come to SAIS to build their professional networks, learn from renowned faculty, train with policy practitioners, and gain hands-on work experience.

Le Centre interuniversitaire de recherche sur les relations internationales du Canada et du Québec (CIRRICQ) a été créé en 2012. Il regroupe des professeurs, des chercheurs postdoctoraux et des candidats au doctorat provenant de diverses institutions universitaires, des groupes de recherche et des praticiens pour étudier les différents aspects de la politique internationale du Canada et du Québec.

Le Centre regroupe une dizaine de chercheurs qui mènent leurs propres travaux. En 2017, il s’est associé à trois groupes de recherche, soit l’Observatoire canadien des crises et de l’Aide humanitaire (OCCAH), le Groupe d’étude sur le Québec et l’international (GERIQ) et l’Observatoire de la politique et de la sécurité dans l’Arctique (OPSA).

The Canadian Studies Program at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for the John A. Sproul Research Fellowship.

The Sproul Fellowship provides modest support for a scholar with interests in Canada who wishes to spend a period of time at Berkeley. One or more Fellows will be selected, with an award up to $4,000 U.S. (amount depending on length of stay). The award is intended to supplement other support the scholar may have (e.g. sabbatical pay). Sproul Fellows must have possessed a PhD or its equivalent for five years prior to the date of arrival at Berkeley.

Deadline: May 13, 2020

Québec 2020

The 22nd Biennial Conference of the ACQS

October 21-25, 2020, at the Hôtel le Concorde, Québec City

The American Council for Québec Studies invites proposals for papers and panels for our upcoming conference in October 2020. For this conference, we hope to give space to multiple openings and exchanges. We welcome proposals related to any aspect of Québec studies, including Québec’s diasporas and the Francophone presence in the Americas. We are open to a wide range of approaches across the Social and Physical Sciences and Humanities. Submissions of both individual papers and complete panels are encouraged. All submissions are made via the ACQS website. Conference presentations can be made in French or English. The deadline for the submission of abstracts is April 1st, 2020. Please consult www.acqs.org for more details.

The ACQS is happy to announce a discounted group rate at the Hôtel Le Concorde. A link for reservations will be posted on the ACQS website in Spring 2020.
Canadian Studies at St. Lawrence

From deep exploration in classrooms to bold adventures across the globe, St. Lawrence University students seek insight and knowledge through experience. Every academic, extracurricular, and personal journey they pursue is a chance to ask better questions, magnify understanding, and put their boldest ideas to the test.

St. Lawrence is the closest liberal arts college to another country’s capital (Ottawa, Ontario). The University's proximity to Canada is a highlight for many students who seek to better understand the world through the lens of our closest international neighbor.

Réseau d’études canadiennes
Canadian Studies Network

The Canadian Studies Network – Réseau d’études canadiennes is a bilingual organization dedicated to serving the purposes of faculty, students, and independent researchers who study Canada by strengthening links, promoting exchanges, building partnerships, facilitating professional connections with international Canadian Studies associations, and fostering critical teaching and research on Canada.

Membership in the Canadian Studies Network – Réseau d’études canadiennes is open to all who share its objectives.

Le Réseau d'études canadiennes – Canadian Studies Network est une association bilingue vouée aux besoins des professeurs, étudiants et chercheurs indépendants qui s'intéressent à l'étude du Canada, tout en essayant de renforcer les liens, de promouvoir des échanges, et de créer de partenariats, de faciliter des liens professionnels avec les associations internationales d'études canadiennes, et d'encourager l'enseignement et la recherche sur le Canada.

Toute personne qui partage les objectifs du Réseau d'études canadiennes – Canadian Studies Network a le droit de devenir membre.
